BACK TO SCHOOL Freshmen Jerry Norris and Jason VanHoosier register for the first time at Sanger High.

It was the best of times; it was the worst of times. And somewhere in between were the everyday lives of the students at Sanger High School. Although many complained that life at Sanger High was sometimes boring, there was always something to do. Each student faced new challenges in the 1988-89 school year. Between report cards, research papers, and TEAMS tests, we overcame more than the usual academic challenges ... a move into a tougher district, dateless weekends, not having a driver's license, or even worse not having a car, were but a few of the worst aspects of the year. Those times would not be easily forgotten. But the worst of times were replaced with memories of the best times. These included homecoming, team victories, pep rallies, cruising, hanging around with friends, and causing trouble in class. Most of these times were spent with friends, classmates and teachers. However, when all was said and done we made it through the best and worst of times ... together.

HANDY HELPERS?? Seniors Jamie Lyon and Jeff Jannereth work off unserved detentions.

Sure, Sanger is a small town, so what was there for students to do between the Halloween Carnival, Homecoming, the Prom, and other school related activities? Here in Sanger, a person could always rent some movies and pick up a pizza or sub. Students could hang out with a couple of friends, preferably at a house where no parents were home, or just gossip on the phone for a while. For those who had access to transportation, there were plenty of things to do in Denton, such as shopping at the Golden Triangle or going to see the latest hit at the movies. Also for fun, there was going out to eat or cruising the Strip.

Living in such a small town wasn't all that boring. Many people even enjoyed it. Like Junior Keri Lewis said, "It's fun living here because you know everybody, and you're real close to your friends."

SPIRIT WEEK

TIMES

Just normal high schoolers. That's what Sanger High School students looked like until Spirit Week. During Spirit Week the student body was transformed into anything but normal. The competition became fierce as each class competed for points to win the $50 prize. Dress-up days were one of the ways to show school spirit. On these days anything from toga's to terrorists could be seen roaming the halls of Sanger High. Another way of showing spirit was the bonfire. The 1988 bonfire was the first one in several years that wasn't burned down by a graduated class or another school. On Thursday each class participated in the hall decorating contest. The junior's hall won with the "Danger Zone" theme. By Friday, the competition at the pep-rally was fierce as students made a last attempt to win the Spirit Week prize of $50. Again the Junior class showed the most spirit and won the Spirit Week contest. Spirit Week came to an end with the Homecoming Parade after school on Friday.

TIME TO REMEMBER

As crowds gathered at the Stephen Baker Field, the 1988 Homecoming began with pre-game festivities. Student Council President Lisa Mustin and Vice-President Jerry Stevenson presented flowers to the Homecoming court nominees and, also, to Senior Felicia Adkins for being selected Homecoming Sweetheart. The Homecoming King for 1988 was Senior Sean Kelly and the Queen was Senior Traci Adkins. The new queen was crowned by former Homecoming queen Chris Harper. Sanger played a tough football game and came out victorious. The end score showed Sanger as the winner over the Princeton Panthers. The game was followed by the Homecoming dance in the High School cafeteria.

QUALITY TIMES

The best of times usually come when you're with a friend. Or maybe some of those times weren't the best. But what are friends for? Some of the people who were the best of friends were more than "friends." Dating and couples were always a hot subject around school. After all, what fun would school be without the gossip? School just wouldn't be the same without friends. "You can always turn to a friend if there is a problem or if you need someone to talk to," said Senior Andrea Bailey. Through all the good and the bad, friends were an important part of high school memories.

MEMORABLE TIMES

"My most memorable date was with an ex-boyfriend on my birthday. First, his car died on our way to Chili's so we went to Pizza Hut and the pizza was burnt. So I was at home at 8:30," said Junior Tammy Stogsdill

"On the weekends I like to hang out with Thomas and Rusty. We go camping, fishing, and work cows. But most of all I enjoy wrestling with them," said Kevin Wainscott

"My idea of a real date is, first of all, to be picked up on time. Then go to a nice, romantic restaurant and to a late show," said Senior Darla George

Believe it or not, there was life after school hours. After school hours were spent by many working. "I like working because I can have money to go out with" said Junior Matt McGuffin. On weekends, most people agreed that going out with friends was a favorite thing to do. Going out on a date was also something to do. However there were other times school was out. Snow caused school to close for four days. Students took advantage of this time to sleep late and play in the snow. Then came Spring Break. Many people went out of town to places such as Galveston and South Padre Island. Then again, many people stayed in Sanger to relax and party. In all, the time out of school was spent being with family and friends.

SPARE TIME

DON'T SCRATCH! Bret Turnbow and Scott Madewell shoot a game of pool.

TIME FLIES

SHS FAVORITES

A TIME TO SHINE

John Briner and Traci Adkins are this year's Mr. and Miss Sanger High School. John was active in football and golf; he was also the president of the senior class. Not only was Traci the head cheerleader for the 1988-1989 school year, she also participated in golf. In addition, she was Senior Class Secretary.

The cafeteria underwent an almost magical transformation for the Favorites Dance, which was held on Friday, February 17. Gone were the rows of tables, replaced with a large stage and multi-colored decorations to enhance the theme, "Wish Upon a Star." Students began trickling in at 8 o'clock, paying four dollars for a single ticket and seven dollars for a couples ticket. The "Entertainer," the disc jockey for the evening, played such favorites as "Wild Thing," "Pour Some Sugar on Me," and "The Chair." Everyone who attended seemed to really enjoy the selection of music. At ten p.m. the nominees were presented and the winners announced. The female nominees carried carnations and the winners were pinned with a special "star." All in all, the dance seemed to be a huge success, with many students staying until the very last song.

PROM

TILL THE CLOCK STRIKES TWELVE

TILL THE CLOCK STRIKES TWELVE. Excitement filled the air as students at Sanger High School gathered in Hubbard Hall at TWU for the 1989 Prom. Not only was the Prom exciting, it was also interesting. Many styles and colors were brought about the dance floor.

The 1989 Sanger Prom will be a memory for everyone who attended to see the fulfilled room.

Royal blue and gold were the colors which decorated Hubbard Hall. Thanks to the Juniors and Junior Sponsors, the 1989 Prom turned out to be a great success.

HOLIDAYS

Time of Season

Tis' the season! Holidays at Sanger High were always looked forward to well in advance. On Halloween any number of ghouls could be seen roaming the halls. The Halloween carnival, sponsored by the Student Council, helped raise money for many clubs. Next came Thanksgiving which gave students a much welcomed break. However, as soon as Thanksgiving was over Christmas was just around the corner. "I start looking forward to Christmas as soon as Thanksgiving is over," said junior Kevin Wainscott. Finally there was Valentines Day. The office was flooded with flowers from boyfriends and girlfriends.

In all, holidays at Sanger High were a welcome break from school-work.

MERRY CAROLERS Mrs. McIntire, Mrs. Willis, Mrs. Morse, Mrs. Reyes and Mrs. Danner fill the halls with Christmas cheer.

OH YOU DEVIL! Freshman Dena Smith is in the Halloween mood in her "devilish" costume while enjoying the Halloween party.

ALL LOCKED UP Members of the Sanger High band wait for a criminal to lock up at the Halloween carnival.

FADS 'N FASHIONS

In 1988-89 many new fads and fashions arised, while many old styles regained popularity. Tie-dyed items from shirts to skirts were seen around school. Once again, denim was in whether it was dyed, faded, or slashed. Rolled up jeans with slouch socks made a definite statement, but so did Keds or deck shoes worn without socks. Units never seemed to lose popularity. When colder weather arrived, so did leather flight jackets. Dockers became stylish with many guys, but ropers were still fashionable. Longer hair was seen on most girls, and perms made a big comeback. "Just casual styles are in, that's what most people wear." Said senior Jami Greenville. Whatever the fashion, Sanger High students were on top of it all.

Anything Anytime

In the MacMillan dictionary, the definition of a person states: "Man, human, or child; human being; individual."

Being an individual, that was what Sanger High was all about and the people were what made the difference. Walking through the halls one may have seen cowboys, preps, skateboard people or even new wavers. Although Sanger High might have been a small school it still had an amazing amount of individuality. Students would do almost anything to get attention. Some of the crazier stunts pulled this year were the basic teacher pranks, senior graffiti, wearing shorts and just the normal senior "shenanigans."

People were the memory makers and it would not have been anything without them!

YUM YUM Senior Traci Adkins gives a demonstration of how durable the schools chocolate pudding really is.

WORK SLAVE Getting cleaned up for the new school year seemed to involve students as well as faculty.

SHS WE LOVE YOU Tradition at Sanger High never changes as students sing the school song at the end of a pep rally.

TIME OUT OF MIND

At last, the time all seniors strive for and dream about, the end of their senior year. For most seniors the last six weeks of school was hectic and stressful. They realized that they would have to decide on their future. For many that meant deciding on where to go to college. Heath Hayes, Cheri Gulyas, Jami Greenville, Carie Moorehead and many others decided to stay close to home and go to North Texas. However, others decided they needed to get as far away from Sanger as they could. Several others went to Tarleton A&M & Texas — the list goes on and on.

How Time Flies

How time Flies. From that first day of kindergarten it seems like the school years will never end. Suddenly it all ends and students realized that the time went by so fast. Once that junior year hits everything changes. "This year we have so much more freedom," said Sherry Scobee. Everyone was so busy that it made the year practically zoom past. "I have been a lot busier this year than last because of drill team," said Morriah Hodzic.

Ordering class rings, receiving letter jackets, preparing for the prom and competing with the seniors for the spirit stick were just a few things endured by juniors. "I don't feel that there should be a competition between classes because when you have a pep rally the classes end up yelling for themselves rather than the players," stated Kerry Creager. Having only one more year left most juniors worried about college. "I will be kind of scared to graduate but I'll be glad to get it all over with," said Kris Davis. All the juniors had to remember was to be patient and wait their turn because graduation would be there before they knew it!

DEEP IN THOUGHT Junior Eric Stenger helps with the 1988 Sanger High School Presidential Elections.

Time to ring out. That was what December seventh was for the class of 1990. The students had to be at school around 7:15 a.m. to receive their class rings. All day students and teachers alike were busy turning class rings.

Students had many different feelings about their new ring. "If you are going to college you don't need one, but you do need something so that you can remember your high school years," said Jennifer Elieson. "My ring says that I am one year away from graduating," said Kevin Wainscott.

When most people think of class rings they also think of Juniors. "I don't feel that underclassmen should get their rings because we waited until our Junior year and they should wait their turn," said Tammy Stogsdill.

All in all, the Juniors seemed to be pretty satisfied with their rings. "I didn't know which one I wanted so I didn't order one," stated Ken Boynton. On the other hand, Jana Turpin said, "It says that I am about to finally graduate!"

Time After Time

Time after time, year after year sophomores have been thought of as the most boring class in high school. By their second year, they had realized that causing a lot of trouble was useless and did not phase the faculty anymore.

However Sanger High School's sophomores wanted to change this image of boredom. "I would start by changing the way some of the people dress and then maybe start a new trend or two for the class of '91," said Dave Kelly. On the other hand, there were a few who looked forward to moving up to Junior land. "I look forward to getting my class ring and being one year closer to being a senior," said Amy Fleming.

In conclusion the Sophomores of 1989 were just happy to not be Freshmen. "If I could sum up my Freshmen year in one word it would be 'nightmare'," said Jennifer Sullivan. The class of '91 definitely kept Sanger High on its toes and ended the boring image of Sophomores.

WHAT DID YOU RUN INTO? Sophomore Ellen Harper found out what it was like to have her first wreck when she ran into a Porsche.

What if I fail my drivers test? What if my date does not like me? What if I get a green pinto for my sixteenth birthday? Many sophomores said these things for the first time this year. Turning sixteen brings a lot of new exciting responsibilities for teenagers. Getting your license and hopefully getting a car are all big challenges for a sixteen year old. The first time to drive legally is always a big step to a teen. "I remember it was December 6, 1988 and it was great, I did not do as bad as I thought I would," said Ellen Harper.

Besides driving students have to worry about dating. First dates are always memorable. "My first date was with John Briner and we went to see 'Revenge of the Nerds' with my brother and his girlfriend," said Kim Fulgham.

First times are scary and often nerve racking but you have to go through with them some time in life!

Time To Begin

Time to begin. That was what the high school was all about for freshmen. The first day in a new school can be kind of scary. "I was sort of nervous because I really didn't know what to expect," said Carrie Mauldin.

Like everything, there are good and bad aspects of being in high school. "You're expected to know what to do and do more," said Jennifer Rodgers. "You have a lot more responsibility, and there are better looking girls," said Jody Roberts.

Most freshmen said that there was a lot more work given by teachers. "Most of the teachers give us homework on the same day and we do not have enough time to finish it all," said Elisha McCoy. But over all, the freshmen seemed to pick the high school over the middle school. Even though Jerry Dunaway said, "In high school we just get shoved around." "You're trusted more, almost like an adult," said Jennifer Jones.

ITS A FRESHMAN Rona Beard gets out of her dad's truck and prepares for another day of school.

What exactly was embarrassing for freshmen? Some said having their mom or dad drive them to school every morning was pretty bad. Although the situation may be embarrassing, it does have its advantages. Of course, there are disadvantages too.

Having your mom drive you to school may give you quality time for conversation. However, it may not be too wonderful listening to some parent's radio stations. Sometimes it can turn out to be pretty scary.

Getting to school one and a half hour early because your dad has to be to work by six o'clock is not that great either. Kids have to finish getting ready at school, but it does give the students time to finish their homework that they did not do at home.

Overall, the students decided that having their mom or dad drive them to school was not that bad. "Which would you rather do have your mom drive you or walk to school," said Dena Smith.

A Freshmen's Time

All in all the freshmen's first year in high school was not so bad. "The people here treat you much better," stated freshman Stephen Johnson. Likewise there was less hazing this year than in the past. This itself was a dream come true to freshmen.

Time Stands Still For No One

Time stands still for no one, not even teachers. "No matter how hard I work, it always seems that I am behind on something," said Shelly Langley.

Teaching was not just an eight hour job, and a one hour conference period was not enough time to get everything accomplished. Papers and test were continually being taken home to grade.

Teachers were required to make one week lesson plans for each class they teach. This takes a lot of time. "Each lesson plan averages about an hour to make," said Mike Danner. Curriculum guides, required to turn into the state, also had to be made. At the end of the six weeks, teachers also had to average grades. "Averaging grades takes about ten minutes per student," said English teacher Beth Roach. Each teacher had an average of about 100 total students.

On top of this work, there was still more. Almost every teacher was involved in extra-curricular activities. Whether it was getting together a drama production, taking the drill team to competition, or just being a class sponsor, teachers put forth all of their effort for the students. "I would say it took us 15 to 25 hours preparing for the prom," said Carol Danner

Class Acts covered the activities that involved classroom time, tutorials, and other academic activities.

Some of the students gave their opinion about what they liked about Class Acts. Junior Jennifer Masten said,

"I think Class Acts were important because they involved inside the classroom as well as outside of the classroom activities." Class Act's activities gave the students time in and out of the classroom, this gave the students a variety of activities. Class Acts also tries to get the students involved by showing them different environments.

PROJECTS

A Time to Create

In the Class Acts Section there were many projects that certain classes create for a grade. Projects make a more interesting class and this gets the students more involved.

Some classes that integrated projects were Geometry, Homemaking, and all of the science classes. In the Geometry class3es the students were assigned to a project every six weeks. Some of these projects involved, enlarging a picture on a poster and finding pictures of geometric figures. Junior Jeannie Sather said, "The geometry project was fun until it got to the hard part of enlarging the picture." In the Homemaking classes each student made their own sweatshirt. The Homemaking classes also did plenty of cooking and learned how to sew as well. All of the Science classes were required to do a science fair project. Junior Jennie Last said, "I enjoyed doing my science fair project but I wish I would have made a higher grade because it was a long procedure.

All of the projects that the students created made each class more interesting and more creative.

HOMEMAKER ... Junior Rachel Boyer finishes sewing her sweatshirt in Homemaking class.

PEER FACILITATING

A Time to Council

Peer Facilitating is a new class this year for Juniors and Seniors. Peer Facilitating is a group of students who learn to council students from all the different schools. Each student is assigned to different students from these schools. The high school students in Peer Facilitating enjoyed working with the younger students. Senior Heath Hayes said, "I enjoyed talking to 'my' kids and becoming friends with them." Many of the peer facilitators experienced different things during counseling these students. Senior Traci Adkins said, "I've learned to be more open and trusting with people. The kids have taught me in order to accomplish anything, you must give it your all, and that's what I had to do to accomplish anything with the kids I talked to."

Many of the peer facilitators became close to the students they were counseling. The peer facilitators had different reasons for liking peer facilitating. "The thing I enjoyed most about peer facilitating is the feeling of accomplishment when a student really starts to trust you, when they open up to you and they realize that you really are a friend," said Senior Cherie Gulyas.

Even though this was the first year of the Peer Facilitating class, everyone learned a lot about counseling from going to the different schools and helping the kids.

What a Casanova Freshman Daniel Basset sweeps Senior Cherie Gulyasoff her feet.

A lot of hard work and long hours was put into the One Act play but rumors have it, it was well worth the time and effort. Freshman Jennifer Jones said, "I hated the long hours of practice on Saturday and every day but in the end it was worth it; now I feel as if I could do anything!"

This group also became very close in that time period. Sophomore Tina Hendricks stated, "I enjoyed being together and making an acting ensemble. It makes you feel good to be in an active organization." Junior Mysti Hilliard had more to say on that subject, "When you spend as much time together as we did you become very close to each other." There was also a lot to learn from this experience; some students learned how to build stage props such as furniture or how to do stage make up, while they also learned the art of critiquing.

In conclusion, there was a lot learned by this cast. There was a lot of time and effort put into this One Act play but it appeared to be worth it. This time spent gave these students the opportunity to become closer to their peers while they learned the art of acting.

CLASSROOM

A time to learn

Reading, Math, English . . . These were some of the classes that the students learn during classroom time. This was a time for the teachers to teach the students and for the students to learn.

Each student has 6 classes a day and they usually had 6 different teachers teaching them. There were the basic classes that the students were required to take and there were elective classes that the students got to chose. Sophomore Cindy Belew said, "I like elective classes better than the basic classes because I can chose what elective classes I want to take, but I'm required to take the basic classes."

Freshman Daniel Bassett said, "It seems like the teachers expect you to do more work at home because they're always giving us tons of homework." When the students did not finish their work in class it was usually homework. Homework can sometimes be the students decision or it can be the teacher's.

Each class is fifty-five minutes long. When asked if she thought the classes were too long, Senior Cindy Moss said, "I think that the classes should last about forty-five minutes because that is plenty of time for us to learn."

In this classroom time the students had to adjust to each teacher they had and their methods of teaching. When asked if she would rather have had only one teacher or have six teachers, Junior Tammy Stogsdill said, I like having six different teachers because it would get boring if you had the same teacher all year." The classroom time was a chance for the students to learn and have the teacher in the class if they needed them.

The good, the bad, and the ugly!!! Juniors Sean McDonald, Rene Escobedo, and Brian Lester actually appear to be doing some work!

Put Your Nose Here!!! Junior Jennie Last gets her punishment of having to put her nose on the chalk board in Coach Brittian's class.

Studying?!? Sophomores study hard in the cafeteria during tutorials.

A time to spare!

30 Minutes tutorials, assemblies, pep rallies, and class meetings. This time was given to students so they could have the opportunity to go to their teachers if they needed extra help. Freshmen Chris Peppers said, "I usually go to Spanish tutorials, but I sometimes go to English, I go to these places because these are the classes I mainly need help in."

This 30 minutes was not only spent in the books. It was also used for pep rallies to show our school spirit. Sophomore Kim Fulgham said, "I like the pep rallies it shows that everyone has school spirit." In this 30 minutes we also had class meetings and assemblies. During class meetings each class would meet individually and would discuss future class activities, but in assemblies the whole school would meet in the gym. "Assemblies are ok but class meetings are more fun because you get to be with your own class," said Junior Jeanie Sather.

Although this time was spent in many different ways, it still fulfilled the need of every student.

A Time For YOU

Go to meetings, vote on issues, sell candy, work concession stands, and reap the rewards. As any member of an organization knows, these are common activities when you belong to a club.

"If you are in a lot of organizations, it can be hard to organize your time and make it to all of the meetings and activities," says Lori Trego, sr., who is active in many organizations.

Billie McGregor, jr. says "Doling the organized activities is really fun."

"It's neat to do different things with different people," says Daniel Bassett fr.

There can be some disadvantages to being in an organization, however.

"You always have to sell stuff!" says Julie Lemons, sr. Selling isn't all bad, though. "I really don't mind selling things," says Jeff Neil, soph., "because I know in the end the money comes back to the organization, which includes me!"

Oh My! Dayna Carter and Michelle Humphries show their enthusiasm at an FFA meeting.

A Time for Leadership

Student Council

"We are the voice of Sanger High School."

That's what Sherry Scobee, Operations Coordinator, said about the Student Council. This year's Council made many contributions to the student body through doing a great job promoting school spirit, and making sure that the feelings of the student body were heard.

The Council sponsored Drug-Free Week, Non-Smoking Week, and helped in various community projects such as the Sanger Bargain Depot. The Bargain Depot, a special store for the needy of Sanger, was "a neat idea because it gave the high schoolers an opportunity to help out and be more responsible in the community," says Racheal Suggs, junior representative.

Being in Council "offers a chance to participate in an organization which directly affects the community as well as the school," says Jerry Stevenson, Vice-President.

Althought the Student Council made many accomplishments, there was some tension existing.

"The actual members were not always informed of what were supposed to be Council activities," according to one representative who wished to remain anonymous.

Regardless of the few problems encountered, the Student Council for the year 1988-89 was, according to Kerry Creager, "... Pretty interesting!"

Ho, Hum Junior Merideth Preston and senior Grant Bowles greet new students at freshmen registration. Project "welcome" gave incoming freshmen the opportunity to meet members of various organizations.

Spike it! Senior Lori Trego and faculty member Mrs. Reyes prepare for the serve at the Senior/Faculty volleyball game. The proceeds from the game went for Lottie Holder's hospital stay. Mrs. Holder had injured her shoulder earlier in the year.

Pickin' and Grinnin' Senior John Briner throws himself at the mercy of Senior Julie Lemons on Student Council sponsored "Twin Day" during spirit week.

A Word From the President. "The main purposes and objectives of the Student Council are to meet the needs of the school, serve the community and the school, and offer school sponsored recreation. I believe that this year's Student Council has helped with student moral by promoting school spirit through dress up days, etc. The Student Council is helpful in learning how to organize events, and how to work together to really get a job done!" said Lisa Mustin.

SHS Cheerleaders

Good times and bad times ... that's what being an S.H.S. cheerleader entails.

For example, "It was so embarrassing!" is how jr. Jana Turpin summed up her feelings when the run through sign for the Coppel game was forgotten. Another difficulty experienced by the Varsity squad was a change in sponsors in mid-year.

"It wasn't a 'bad' experience, it was just different."

"I enjoy cheering as a group and entertaining the crowd!"

says Traci Adkins, sr., who is also head cheerleader.

Despite the changes, the varsity squad enjoyed their work.

"I enjoy cheering as a group and entertaining the crowd," is how jr. Tammy Stogsdill describes her feelings toward cheerleading.

Over the summer, the Varsity Squad attended cheerleading camp at Tarleton University, and won the Award of Excellence. Also at camp, sr. Jona Knightstep was nominated for All American Cheerleader; as a group, the squad received the coveted Award of Excellence, and the Spirit Stick.

VARSITY CHEER-LEADERS Jona Knightstep, Ann Garland, Vinita Wade, Tammy Stogsdill, Traci Adkins-Head Cheerleader, Jana Turpin, Merideth Preston, and Julie Lemons.

J. V. CHEERLEADERS Bonni Hodzic, Rona Beard, Sheila George-Head Cheerleader, Dawn Coin, Shala Inman, Ellen Harper, Connie Holder.

"Watch Out, We're Here!" J. V. Cheerleaders Shala Inman and Ellen Harper show their dedication while hard at work at practice.

SHS Band

"LOUD!"

"Fun!"

"Dedicated."

"Proud."

"Bizarrel!"

These are just a few choice words used to describe the SHS Band, by band members. During pep rallies, while marching on the field, through endless practices and endless bus rides, the SHS Band spirit never failed.

At the University of Texas at Arlington Marching band contest, Sanger received a rating of three. This rating was the same as last year, however, it is better than the year before.

This year's band favorites, who were announced at the spring concert, were April Taylor and Matt Morris.

With the Christmas concert, spring concert, solo and ensemble contests, and even the Charmer stage show, the band has had a busy year.

Cherokee Charmers

The Charmers underwent many changes throughout the year. Those that remained strived to be the best they possibly could be.

In June, the Charmers attended a Marching Auxillaries Camp at the University of North Texas. Those awards received by the officers were superior awards on both the routines.

Camp was a difficult time considering, "We didn't have a director and the officers had to everything, but the line still did very well," said Captain, Staci Jenkins. Staci Jenkins, Jenni Roeder, and Colleen Shumate were invited to attend the Hawaiian Classics in Honolulu, Hawaii and the Tampa Hall of Fame Bowl in Florida. Staci Jenkins, Jenni Roeder, and Colleen Shumate were chosen as Honor Roll Medalist.

The Charmers performed at football games as well as making goody bags for the players. They also attended a basketball game and went to a Marching Auxillaries Competition in December.

Speech and Drama

"Curtian!"

And so the year begins. The Speech and Drama Club had an exceptionally busy year. This year, The drama department put on two fall productions. The first one, "Werewolf", had only four characters. They were: "Harold", played by Curt Fleissner, "Dr. Mad-dox" played by Kerry Creager, "Lovey", played by Cherie Gulyas, and "Mumsy", played by Kris Davis. "Werewolf" was presented as a dinner theatre.

The second fall production was called "Voices from the High School". This play presents the problems of modern high school students in realistic and humorous points of view.

At UIL competition, the cross-examination debate team of Lisa Mustin and Merideth Preston made it all the way to state. Also, sophomore Jeff Neill went to state in Lincoln-Douglas debate.

One of Speech and Drama's money-making projects was the Spook House at the Student Council Halloween Carnival. The "Mall of Horrors", complete with a torture chamber, "parts" (human) shop, and Grody's Cafeteria, was truly a memorable sight.

There are also other organizations involved in the Speech and Drama department: the National Forensic League and the International Thespian Society. Members of NFL are: Matt Nixon, Jerry Stevenson, Lisa Mustin, Jeff Neill, Tina Hendricks, Laura Step, Merideth Preston. Members of ITS are Matt Nixon, Doug Bryant, Kelly Dickens, Donna Carter, Lisa Mustin, Tina Hendricks, Jerry Stevenson, Kerry Creager, Cherie Gulyas. The sponsor, director and friend of the Speech and Drama club is Sunny Yeatts.

Future Homemakers Of America

Future Homemakers of America members were very busy during the 1988-89 school year. The first award that they received was the sweepstakes award on the FHA float during Homecoming week. In December, members decorated doors at the Care Inn nursing home to fill the air with the spirit of Christmas. During FHA week many activities happened. To start off the week Mr. and Miss. Irresistible were chosen. Mr. and Miss. Irresistible were Jody Roberts and Heidi Hill. Other activities during the week were the balloon lift-off and the promise cake which raised a lot of money.

The FHA project show was March 21. There were many awards given out but the top honors were given to Melody Moore, Crissy Cummins and Ladell Gresham. In April, a few members attended the state meeting in Houston with sponsors Mrs. Langley Mrs. Higgs. Christi Norton competed and Rhonda Eubanks won area vice-president of projects.

Sarah Langley, president of FHA, said her most memorable experience was "visiting all the neat places for the FHA conventions and especially this year's state convention. We went to the Hard Rock cafe in Houston and meet a lot of good-looking guys."

FFA

The Future Farmers of America were very active in 1988-89 school year. They attended everything from stock shows to the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Missouri.

The FFA started the school year by attending district meetings and they also elected their sweetheart, Michelle McNary.

In November, Kevin Wainscott, Briant Lester, Brian Thorne, Michelle McNary, Rhonda Trietsch, LaDell Gresham, Dayna Carter, and Michelle Humphries all attended the National FFA Convention. The main highlight of the convention was attending the American Royal Stock Show and Rodeo, and listening to comedian Jerry Clower. The FFA also attended various stock shows through the year.

They attended Prosper, Krum, Sanger, Valley View, State Fair of Texas, and Fort Worth stock shows.

The FFA went through various school changes in 88-89. Instead of full year courses, they changed to semester courses. Some of the new courses were Wildlife management, Horticulture, Landscaping, and Agriculture mechanics. With these new changes came new students and higher FFA membership.

Overall, the Future Farmers of America had a very busy, but very successful year.

BPA/VOE

BPA and VOE had a very successful year. Throughout the year they attended many competitions and were very successful. Jerry Stevenson had the biggest accomplishment of the year. He placed second at national competitions for Extemporaneous Public Speaking Level Two. At regionals Lisa Mustin, Sherry Scobee, James Grider, and Jeff Niel went to state for Extemporaneous Public Speaking Level Two. For fund raisers during the year they sold Reeses and M & M's. The group also learned many things in the class that prepared them for the future. Overall BPA and VOE did very well this year. Keep it up!

VAC

The Vocational Adjustment class, otherwise known as VAC, gives students an opportunity to gain job skills to prepare them for a future occupation. As an alternative to attending afternoon classes, the students hold a job while receiving high school credit. This year there were five students involved in the VAC program. Mrs. Davis is the director of the VAC program. The students worked everywhere from places like Dairy Queen to Denton Monument Company. The students worked very hard this year and were very successful at what they did.

HECE/Ag Co-op

Home Economics Cooperative Education and Agriculture Cooperative are part time training programs that require fifteen hours a week. Also, students attend a corresponding class daily in addition to their morning classes.

Ag co-op requires two years of agriculture courses. The jobs at which the students are employed must be agriculture related. Many of the jobs held in Ag co-op vary from horse ranches to green houses.

Michelle Humphries said, "I really enjoy being in Ag co-op because you learn a lot about the job you work at."

The purpose of HECE is to orient the student and help teach the student what it is like in the real work world. The course offers on the job training for the student wanting to enter a career or continue his or her education in a home economics related occupation. HECE students must have a job related to home economics. Many of the students worked at grocery stores and day care centers.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club was involved in many activities this year. They were involved in the Halloween carnival, worked in concession stands and sold chocolates. The Spanish Club took many field trips which included the plays in Dallas and Ft. Worth and Ramses the Great. The Fiesta on March 27 was a big success. A volleyball game was played and "The Couples" team won. "The volleyball game was fun because everyone got a chance to play that wanted to, said Jeffrey Gillum.

"The friendliness that everyone shows toward each other," was what Jennifer Masten enjoys most about the Spanish Club.

"Spanish Club gave me a chance to see things that I wouldn't have seen otherwise," said Jona Knightstep.

Science/Art Clubs

The Art Club and the Science Club. A strange combination indeed, but you could say that they both have to do with a culture of sorts... But seriously, The Art and Science clubs are great ways to spend time and get involved in school.

The Art Club, sponsored by Mrs. Oller, did some fun fundraisers such as the Christmas bolo-tie and decorative pin sale. The Art Club went to Dallas and Ft. Worth art exhibits, and also viewed the Ramses exhibit.

The Science Club once again had candy bar sales as their main fundraiser. Much of the money went toward buying new equipment for the science lab, but some of the money went to the annual Spring Break trip. This year's trip was, once again, to Freeport, Texas. Various field trips included ones to Galveston's "The Strand", a nuclear power plant, a tour of the coast guard, and a special presentation by A & M Marine Biology graduate students.

Honorable Times

Honor Organizations

It truly is an honor to belong to one of the prestigious honor organizations at Sanger High. These organizations are the National Honor Society, the Letterman's Club, and STARS.

The National Honor Society is a nation-wide organization. To become a member, students must have an average over 85, and exemplify high standards in the qualities of scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Teachers must also recommend the candidates for this privilege of being in the Honor Society.

The Letterman's Club consists of students who have lettered in any University Scholastic League (U.I.L.) activity. These activities include any sport, literary, journalistic, and academic activities. To letter, a student must have shown exceptional effort and/or achievement in that area.

The third honor organization is Sanger's Talented and Resourceful Students, or STARS. This is Sanger's Gifted program. To be a member, students must have teacher recommendation, and score highly on an intelligence quotient test. Members of STARS are Rona Beard, Angela Colston, Ian Elieson, Dena Renz, Kassy Sather, Jennifer Rodgers, Mackenzie Moore, Erin Conkel, James Davis, Donna Carter, Kerry Creager, Kris Davis, Jeffery Gillum, Billie McGregor, Grant Bowles, John Briner, Cherie Gulyas, Jason Jones, Julie Lemons, Lisa Mustin, Matt Nixon, and Jerry Stevenson.

Yearbook

"Hard work!"

That's how sr. April Taylor summed up her experiences on the 1988-89 Golden Warrior staff.

Jana Turpin, jr., describes it as "a really different experience."

Mrs. Wohlgemuth, who had her first year as yearbook sponsor this year, said "I expected us to have a few problems, but we did a good job in overcoming them because we were all going through a learning process."

"The worst part," says Dee-Dee Kizzar, sr., "was being behind. I think one thing we could have done is that we could have been more organized."

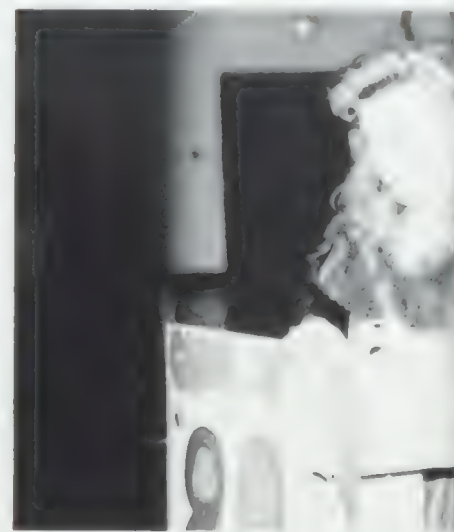

But wait! There were good times too, right?

"The most fun thing was when we did the Yearbook Senior awards." Says Ann Garland, sr. "It gave us a break from the every day."

Racheal Suggs, jr., felt that "It was neat to get to know some of the people that you wouldn't have any other opportunity to get to know."

Tammy Stoggsdill, jr., probably best summed up the year by saying, "It was a learning experience!"

And the Winner is Staff members Andrea Bailey and Ann Garland announce winners at the first "annual" senior awards presentation.

Our Courageous Leaders This year's hard-working yearbook editors were Carrie Moorehead and Staci Jenkins.

"The Boss" During her first year as Yearbook Supervisor, Mrs. Wholgemuth did a great job with her support and advice.

A Time For Winners

SPORTS AT SANGER HIGH! "It's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game," is a very well-known sports cliché at Sanger High. The losses were up, but we had a big bundle of spirit. Any sport, from football to baseball, had a large amount of enthusiasm this year. In 1988 we had the Olympics and in 1989 we watched the Cowboys lose Tom Landry. At Sanger High we had A TIME FOR WINNERS.

In the fall, football brought a lot of spirit to SHS. We had a very spirited crowd that could even put-up with the Gainesville fans. Basketball also had a tough time with the stubborn Leopards, but we overcame! Other sports also had a lot of encouragement and enthusiasm.

Also, 1988-89 brought new coaches to the high school. The athletes had to make some new adjustments. The golf team sure had a "tough" time with "Walli Walton". With that great Sanger attitude, our athletes conquered all the trials and tribulations of the year. We can overcome and we did!

Time to Fight for Honor

Varsity football boys will not give in.

The Varsity football team really had to struggle hard this year due to the changes in district. Big teams were chosen for Sanger to play, but against all odds, 3 wins and 7 losses, our small school still had a magical touch. Most importantly, there were memories created.

"My most enjoyable time was in the Southlake Carroll game when I went in against the biggest person of my life. The first play was to run my way. I saw this mountain across from me and on the snap of the ball, I gave him all I had. I went back to the huddle and Derek Strong, the tackle next to me, said, 'Good job Kwast, you stood him up,'" said senior Todd Kwast.

What was the team's overall impression of the season?

"My impression is that I feel the team was one of the best that I've played on in my four years of high school. I feel we had all of what it took to be in the top, but we just could not put our talent together and make it happen," said senior Bret Turnbow.

Some players received special honors at the end of the season for their hard work. All District honors went to: OFFENSE-2nd team-senior Sean Kelly and junior Rene Escobedo; Honorable Mention-seniors Bret Turnbow and Jason Trice and junior Ken Boynton; DEFENSE-2nd team-senior Jimmy Whaley and junior Jeff Tiezen; Honorable Mention-seniors Bret Turnbow and John Briner and sophomore Ronnie Grace.

Wouldn't you say all of these were treasured memories, the Sanger High Varsity Football Team seemed to think so!

CHARGE! Varsity Indians break through the Homecoming sign. The Indians went on to beat Princeton that night.

UGH! Senior Sean Kelly is attacked as he tries to catch a pass. A Whitesboro defender waits for the two to land. Sanger beat the 'Cats in Whitesboro.

Time for Purple Pride

Coaches and students show spirit.

True spirit that shines! There were ten seconds left on the clock, one more touchdown or basket and the tie will be broken. The crowd roots for their team. The ten tense seconds were up ... whether we won the game or not, our friends, family and other spectators were always there to cheer and encourage us as students to strive to do our best. Each athlete was putting 100% on court or on the field, but when they were given that standing ovation from the crowd, it makes all the sweat and hard work worthwhile.

Sanger is honored to have a devoted crowd full of support. Even though we may not have always won, our athletes have come out to be winners. The students of Sanger High have succeeded to be spirit leaders.

WE CAN TAKE IT Through bad weather our crowd is always faithful.

GO TEAM The fans await a winning touchdown from the Indian team.

DANCE FEVER Coach Brittain entertains the crowd at the Student-Faculty volleyball game.

SHOW-OFF Junior Matt McGuffin does a little showing-off at a pre-season practice.

TRUE SUPPORT Senior Grant Bowles receives a goody-bag from a friend, senior Jenni Roeder.

BIG SMILES Coach Kent Crutsinger can actually smile even though no one thought he could. He also acted as Vice-Principal this year.

Coaches Show Their Spirit

There are special people in the world that have enough patience to teach and to guide the children of the new generation. These special people are no other than the coaches themselves. It makes one wonder why people would choose this profession. "I enjoy working with the kids and teaching them good values and to never quit," said Coach Tom Swartz. "I choose coaching as a career because I like working with kids. My influences were my love for athletes and kids," said Coach Jack Armstrong.

Of course, there was always a lot more to coaching than meets the eye. One example is that they have their own opinions about spirit. "Spirit to me is the anticipation and excitement of an upcoming event, the companionship generated by gathering for a game, the crazy antics that people do to agitate a rival and being able to remember the good times," said Coach Gary Walton. Now watch for Walli Walton to be cheering his team on when all else fails.

On the other hand, they had bad days, but to sum up their feelings Coach John Burkhart said, "My most trying issue was being a father, mother, janitor, doctor, counselor, mediator, administrator and equipment manager."

It takes a special person to be the supportive coach that we had at Sanger High.

Time to Move On

JV & Freshmen prepare for bigger things.

The JV and Freshmen football teams started out well this year. They had small teams, but they were working hard. Their main goal was to improve.

"My overall impression of the team is that we have improved 100% since last year. If we can improve just as much next year, we can come back and become one of the best teams in our district," said sophomore Thomas Mullins.

These two teams had to play on Thursday nights and go to school on Friday. Sometimes the teams had to travel a long way. Many of the players made many good memories and some had scary experiences.

"The most memorable game was when Johnny Lopez kicked a field goal in the final seconds to win the game for us," said sophomore Scott Warlick.

"Gainesville! I have never been beaten so bad. Also because I got nailed when I caught the ball. I think it was the hardest I have ever been hit," said freshman David Ohlinger.

Many of these guys look forward to being on the Varsity in the next few years. There are many reasons for their anticipation.

"Being on Varsity would be a whole lot better. They got game pants, travel bags, socks, shoes, and a lot of other good stuff. All we got was one pair of pants and had to wash them before a game day," said freshman Daniel Bassett.

The JV and Freshmen ended up with one team at the end of the year and some of them got to play on the Varsity team for one game. They worked hard and played hard, too. Keep up the good work guys!

FUMBLING FINGERS

SERVING TIME

Volleyball girls keep excitement going.

Enthusiasm was one word for Sanger Volleyball. There was never a dull moment. There were many good times.

"The laughs that we shared and the emotions we encountered as a whole," were senior Dayna Carter's most memorable times.

Many times the Sanger teams were the underdogs. When they were on top the excitement rushed through them.

"It's our game guys, let's settle down and stay in control!" said senior Lori Trego. The girls were beating Lake Worth at this time.

Even though the season record for Varsity was 0-19 and the JV record was 1-18, the teams kept fighting. They had a pretty good year. The Varsity team had two girls who made the all-district team. Elizabeth Trietsch was named to the 2nd team and Jennifer Masten received Honorable Mention.

GO GET 'EM. JV players get ready to score. Freshmen Daniela Hallmark and Tara Roelofs use heavy concentration skills.

Varsity boys fight in a new district.

1988-89 was an exciting year for the Varsity boys basketball team. Their 12 wins were really something to brag about. As soon as the team set foot on the court, the audience knew they were seeing one of the best teams of our area perform. They used all their skills and talent to achieve their goals and make memories. John Meyer, Junior, said, "My most memorable event this year was when we beat Howe. I scored 12 points and I was feeling the best I have ever felt ...."

"Mine was when coach called a time out and we asked, 'What do we run?' and coach said 'I don't know' and in that same game, I shot a granny shot ... I have always wanted to do that," said senior David Lappots

These players dealt with stress and pressure. In many different ways. Just being with the guys ... even though we had turmoil, it was still fun," said senior Grant Bowles. In the end teamwork made this team what it was.

A FLIP OF THE WRIST Grant Bowles, senior, puts two points on the board against the Cardinals

ONCE UPON A TIME

Bloopers

Ever have one of those days when everything seemed to go wrong or just appeared that way? As far as athletes of Sanger are concerned, a bad day meant a blundering and bloopering day. It was time to trip over your shoe-strings, foul out of the game and fall flat on your face in front of the crowd. When all the tension was rising high, it was a miracle that they remained calm and cool.

It wasn't easy to forget the idiotic mistakes you made or the humiliation of having a personal foul. Sanger's athletes simply tried to play the rest of the game to the best of their ability.

Luckily, the staff of the 1988-89 Golden Warrior have captured these memorable moments just for you to judge. Clumsy, uncoordinated, or just having a bad day? You judge, but remember these shots are one chance out of fifty for these incidents to happen again.

THAT MAGICAL SPIRIT! Senior David Lappots not only sleeps, eats and dreams basketball, but also has a magnetic attraction to the ball itself.

LOOK MA, NO HANDS! Against Springtown senior Sean Kelly show us what walking on air is all about.

GET OUT OF MY WAY! Indians John Briner and Heath Hayes shove and pull on a referee as they ramble for a loose ball.

MORE HARD TIMES

Varsity girls have hard times.

Basketball is one of the most competitive sports in Sanger High. Both boys and girls participate which means a real effort to do the best you can on court and off. The girls this year really had that special boost and self-motivation to have a winning team. We may not have won every game, but we have become a "somebody" to everyone who knows us. Being known as a basketball player is easy, but being the player on court is the hard part. Each individual who is on court has to be quick on their feet, know every play and ready to block out the audience when they get tacky.

When wins become less and losses become more, the player turns to a friend for encouragement. "Melody Amyx was one of my biggest influences in getting involved in basketball. She encouraged me to get started and stick with it. I developed a love for the sport which intensified my will to improve," said Junior Andrea Burdick. This can go into the books of Sanger High that this is what unity and teamwork is based on ... friends.

The Lady Indians have finished with a 3-15 record and have nothing to be ashamed of for they have put something back into the Varsity team that has been missing for some time ... PRIDE! Way to go girls.

STRUGGLING FOR THE BALL! Vinita Wade, senior, shows an opposing player how tough the Sanger Girls really are! Vinita started for the Indians this year.

NERVOUS TIMES

JV, Soph, and Fish teams work through nervousness.

Not two, but three boys teams. Sanger High had THREE underclassmen teams this year. Our sophomores joined together to form their own team. They only played a few games, but they worked hard.

Coming out to a slow start, the JV team had many learning experiences and became very competitive toward the middle of the season. Of course, memories have been made with this junior varsity team who struggled to be on top. They succeeded. "My most memorable game was when we played Lindsay in the Lindsay tournament. It was a varsity tournament and we beat Lindsay and won first place," said junior Kerry Creager.

Surprising Times

JV girls surprise everyone around

Coming into high school, the freshmen basketball team proved that they can handle the high school level of basketball. Freshmen Rona Beard said, "I enjoyed being on the freshmen team even though our record was not as good as it has been in the past. Coach Crutsinger has taught us a lot; for instance, we have learned self-respect, to have pride in our team, and that we have the fundamentals of basketball down pat. I guess you could say that last year we played the game of basketball, but this year we have lived it." Just listening to that mature attitude of a freshmen is proof enough that next year the freshmen team of today is going to make a tremendous come-back.

This year the Junior Varsity girls have had an exciting year with obstacles and doubtful players to deal with, but they have done extremely well where teamwork is concerned. "This year we had to overcome many obstacles, but we worked well as a group, and we kept trying even when the odds were way against us. We worked to improve ourselves and I believe we reached our goal," said sophomore Erin Conkel. Seeing that they believe in themselves was just enough to make you bust.

UP AND IN! Freshmen Shannon Griffith scores two more points for the JV Indians. Shannon also played on Varsity during the year.

REACH HIGHER Sophomore Sheila George stretches for two more points against the Porky's.

TWO MORE FOR SHS Showing us her good form, sophomore Erin Conkel scores another basket for the Indians.

Keep In Time

Boy's track team keeps their pride.

They are the few, the proud, the boys track team. Even though the numbers were low, they were still large at heart. We were very proud of you guys, and always will be. Each guy seems to have held a special memory in mind. Freshman Jerry Dunaway said, "I believe the district meet because we all pulled together to do our best."

Sophomore Jeff Randell answered, "District: it is the one I did best in, I won first place in the high jump." The fans and students of Sanger High School were very impressed this year with the boys track team. Not only were memories made but impressions also.

WE ARE PROUD OF YOU GUYS.

UGH!!! At Southlake Carroll, senior Bret Turnbow shows his strength and endurance while throwing the shot-put. Sanger High athletics will miss Bret when he graduates.

OUT OF THE BLOCKS Freshmen Jerry Dunaway struts his stuff against a lot older guys than he.

TAKE A BREAK! Members of the boys track team, and fans, take time out to eat and relax. We hope these guys do not get too full and "lose their lunch" on the track.

PUSHIN' IT At the District meet, Junior Jeff Tieszen strives to be the best in the 200 meter dash. Jeff put a lot of effort into track this year as did the other track members.

IN THE CROWD At the Celina meet, sophomore Bret Jones represents the Junior Varsity team for Sanger in the 1600 meter run.

STYLE AND FORM At the District meet, junior James Barton uses his form when throwing the discus.

HERE I GO AGAIN! Junior Elizabeth Trietsch throws the shot-put at the Regional meet in Commerce. Elizabeth won 5th place at this meet.

FAST TIMES

Girl's track work and win!

THE BETTER VIEW? Freshmen Shannon Griffith throws the discus at the Lake Dallas track meet. Shannon did very well this year and is still improving.

Running toward success, the 1989 track team came in fourth at District. Not only did they do good at District, but other track meets as well. Each girl seems to hold a special meet in mind. Junior Elizabeth Trietsch remembers the Lake Dallas track meet because, "I hold the record there with 33'1" because last year was the first year they started keeping records." To senior Dee-Dee Kizzar the Southlake Carroll meet seems to stand out in her mind because, "The District track meet was the most important to us all."

The girls track team did really well this year and Sanger was really proud of them. Impressions were made on Sanger High School that will never be forgotten. The girls track team also have impressions that they will never forget. Junior Morriah Hodzic said, "I think if we keep up the good practices and stick with it, we could very easily win District." Also, Junior Elizabeth Trietsch said, "I feel that Sanger girls track has come out of the woodwork. We have really gotten better!"

Not only did the team feel this way, but Sanger High and community did also. Good luck next year.

WERE NUMBER ONE Regional qualifiers in the 800 meter relay are: Coach Cindy Williams, Sheila George, Jennie Last, Jennifer Masten and Elizabeth Trietsch.

GIRLS TRACK TEAM T-B;L-R; Jennie Last, Elizabeth Trietsch, Melody Amyx, Andrea Burdick, Morriah Hodzic, Ellen Harper, Sheila George, Angie Shaw, and Jennifer Masten.

GOING STRONG! Junior Jennifer Masten of the 800 meter relay, pushes herself against another runner. Go Jennifer Go!

TRY AGAIN, JOHN! Seniors Jason Fulgham and John Briner enjoy a day of golf where Jason tries to tell John what he is doing wrong.

NOT THIS AGAIN! Senior Vinita Wade is playing the game that advances her to the second round in the District tournament.

GOLF TEAM T-B, L-R: Jana Turplin, Rona Beard, Traci Adkins, Teri Boyd, Andrea Burdick, Kim Fulgham, Jennifer Masten, Jennie Last, David Porter, Jimmy Whaley, John Briner, Jason Fulgham, Larry Frazier, and Greg Merrifield.

TIME TO HAVE FUN

Tennis and Golf teams like to "play" around.

Getting into the swing of things, the 1989 golf team putted their way to success. The girls golf did excellent this year. Five girls went to regionals and placed fourth out of sixteen teams. They were no other than juniors Andrea Burdick, Jennie Last, Jennifer Masten, Meredith Preston and sophomore Kim Fulgham. In this sport, it is highly likely to have an embarrassing moment. The boys of this team gave us some examples: "I was about to hit my ball and I noticed that people were watching me. As soon as I hit the ball, my club snapped in half and missed hitting them by ten yards," said junior David Porter.

The wins of many matches were among the 1989 tennis team. At District they all played very well whether they played singles or doubles. Russell Floyd played Varsity singles and placed third in the District. Also, Billie McGregor and Eric Ceballos each placed third in the Junior Varsity Singles division. Those that played their best and did not place have made themselves memories that will not be erased.

STRETCH FOR SUCCESS Junior Matt Hamilton works to win at the District meet at D/FW Hilton. Matt Hamilton played doubles with Kerry Creager at this meet.

PLEASE, OH PLEASE! Senior Jona Knight-step concentrates on her next hit at the District meet. Jona enjoyed playing doubles with Jenni Roeder at the district meet.

YES, I LOOK GOOD! Putting to success is senior Paul Porter. Paul enjoyed playing golf and being with all his friends during the season.

SLIDE THROUGH TIME

The small team slides into fame.

Hitting their way to victory, this year's baseball team went out of the famous Sanger diamond field and strutted their stuff. Even though the season was not with all wins, the players have learned valuable lessons that it does not matter whether you win or lose, it is how you play the game. Encouraging one another and cheering each other up is what has made this team stick together.

For those whom are the underclassmen, it is a learning experience that can not be forgotten. "You get to learn more about the sport and to see different people playing the sport," said freshmen Terry Dunaway. Even the upperclassmen are watching over the apprentices of baseball. "My overall impression of the season is that it was a good learning experience for the younger guys," said senior Kelly Pirkle. That just proves the quality of this team. Whether you are a freshmen or senior, the team cares. The baseball team of '89 shall not be forgotten and will always be remembered.

STRIKE!! Second-basemen, senior Doug Griffith throws the ball to first base to get another out for the Indians.

BATTER-UP! Freshmen Jerry Dunaway tries to get a hit and score another run for the Indians.

LOOKING GOOD AS ALWAYS Senior Bret Turnbow gets ready to hit a homerun against the Lake Dallas players. Bret has helped the team out a lot.

LOOKING ON The Sanger student body helped support the Sanger Baseball team through thick or thin, and not to mention all the hot sun that the fans sat through to just support the team. Way to go guys and good luck in next years adventures. We love you all.

TIMES UP

The Year In Review

As it has been said before, "it was the best of times and it was the worst of times." Like any school, Sanger High had both good and bad aspects. One of the better aspects was that the seniors bonfire did not get burned down!

In conclusion, the best and worst of times were certainly present in Sanger High School this year.

STARTING THE NEW YEAR that dreadful day of registration.

DID SHE MAKE IT? Probably, the Varsity Girls and Boys Basketball teams both did very well this year.

THE FOOTBALL STUDS pep rallies were one important aspect of the school year, especially homecoming.

REMEMBER "THE" BON FIRE? The Seniors of '89 were the first seniors in a long time to not have their bon fire burned.

THE CHEROKEE CHARMERS have been known for handling changes very well, they certainly did this year.

THE VARSITY FOOTBALL TEAM has not been on a winning streak in a long time, better luck next year.

TIME TO SAY GOODBYE

seniors go their separate ways

Saying goodbye was definitely one of the "worst times" for the seniors of '89. Graduation meant the end of 13 years with each other, since most of the seniors grew up together.

In short seniors will miss Sanger High and all the good times with friends, but not that much.

Senior Night & Baccalaureate

Senior night was a special night honoring the special seniors of Sanger High School. Scholarships and awards were also presented at this time. Scholarships of various kinds were given to Felicia Adkins, Traci Adkins,

Grant Bowles, John Briner, Becky Culpen, Sarah Gardener, LaDell Gresham, Shea Hassell, Cheryl Hausenfluck, Michelle Humphries, Dee-Dee Kizzar, Jona Knightstep, Sarah Langley, Julie Lemons, Lisa Mustin, Kelly Pirkle, Lori Trego and

Vinita Wade. Awards were presented to Grant Bowles, Heath Hayes, Dee-Dee Kizzar, Lisa Mustin and Lori Trego.

The following Sunday, seniors attended a Baccalaureate service at the First Baptist Church of Sanger.

NOW DON'T GET HOSTILE! Dee-Dee Kizzar tells Heath Hayes how it's going to be as they read the history for Senior night

SENIORS CHOW DOWN at the Senior Breakfast. Senior Mothers put together a meal for the seniors before they went to practice for graduation. During this time seniors were roasted by juniors. Tell us Jason, who have you been kissing?

UM, I'M TELLIN' Seniors Staci Jenkins and Jenn Roeder test the water and see what they can get away with. They did it and kept cool at the same time!

THOSE CRAZY SENIORS Baccalaureate is always so much fun for seniors. Can't you tell!

WAY 2 GO! Shea Hassel receives the Purple and Gold award on Senior Night. So that's where the coke machine money goes!

PARTY TIME!

S.H.S. Graduation 1989

1989 Sanger High School Graduation could be summed up in one word: HOT! Not the seniors either, the climate. Due to rain and the fact that the press box got burned down, ceremonies were held in the high school gym. Try to imagine 1000 or more people crammed into a small room with no air! Not much fun huh? Well the Class of 1989 set out to make this graduation ceremony the best ever. Bubbles were blown from chewing gum as well as Mr. Bubbles, which were blown right before the last diploma was received.

Who said seniors were immature?

In short, the Seniors of 1989 endured some difficult tribulations. One of them was sitting through an hour long graduation ceremony, but hey thats life!

WHICH ONE IS REAL? One of these students is really an honor graduate, the other five are not. Figure out which is which!

Honor Graduates were: Kelly Dickens, Jerry Stevenson, Julie Lemons, Jenni Roeder, Grant Bowles, Sarah Gardener, Jona Knightstep, Lori Trego, John Briner, Lisa Mustin, Matt Nixon and Kelly Pirkle.

WHAT A CROWD Seniors take time out of lining up for a quick group snap. Sponsors doing the lining up were very stressed at this moment.

Valedictorian for 1989 Sarah Gardener. Sarah had the highest grade point average out of 80 people and received several awards and scholarships. Sarah plans to attend University of North Texas this fall.

Salutatorian for 1989 John Briner. John had the second highest grade point average and received many awards, scholarships and recognition. John plans to attend the Air Force Academy.

HE FINALLY DID IT! The proudest graduate in Sanger High besides Glen Mathews is this guy, Tony Wozencraft. Good Luck Tony!

A Time To Cherish

Dear Alison,

This is our wish for you, that you have the best of everything in life. We love you very much, you will always be our little girl.

Love,
Mom and Dad

A priceless jewel in our lives, with a heart full of love and joy. Stephani, we wish you all the happiness and good things life may bring.

April:

The years have passed so quickly; I can't believe you're all ready to go to college. I'm so proud of you and know you'll excel in all you try to do in the future.

Love you so much,
Mom, Denny and Melissa

Lori,

Words can't express how we feel about you. We are so proud of the person you've become both inwardly and outwardly. The future is yours, grasp it with the hand of the Lord and you'll receive the best life has to offer.

We love you very much,
Dad, Mom and Sherry

To our # 1 boy. You're truly our pride and joy. We have watched you grow into a fine young man. We wish you all the best at whatever you do. Bret, remember that one special person you had in your life and go to the top for him!

Mom and Dad

Jimmy,

Don't ever lose sight of your dreams. We love you and are very proud of you.

Mom and Dad

Ah, great it is to believe the dream
As we stand in youth by the starry stream;
But a greater thing is to fight life through,
And say at the end,
"The dream is true!"

Dee Dee:

Just wanted to remind you of our great friendship. You mean alot to me! Good luck in the future.

Love ya! Vinita

Jimmy:

You've made my junior year one of the best years of my life, I only hope that I've made your senior year as special. I wish you all the best in all your future endeavors.

Love, Jana

Kelly and Jenni: Congratulations!!!
 We love you,

To my Senior Yearbook Staff:

Well, we've finally made it. There were times when I wasn't sure we would! I thank you for the memories (It certainly has been the best and worst of times!) and I wish you the very best whatever you do and wherever you go!

Love,
Mrs. W.

Almost all of the seniors of 1989 were in English IV. In October, they all got the traditional senior t-shirt, and adding to the outfit, senior boxer shorts. Here, posing during their English classes, are most of the seniors of 1989. They were HOT!

A Time For True Identity

This year, the yearbook staff decided to do something a little bit different than they had ever done before. On Thursday, February 16, all of the seniors met in the gym to attend the first ever "Not So Favorite, Favorite Awards."

The ceremony began with editors Staci Jenkins and Carrie Moorehead explaining how the awards were determined. Each student was given a ballot in English class to vote for the person thought to be the best for the category. Categories included "Most Dangerous Driver," and "Mr. and Miss. Airhead."

No Time Like The Present

Middle school people are people from a different planet. They often do strange things to get attention. Such as wearing earrings that hang to their knee, slashing teachers tires and acting like middle schoolers. However, some credit needs to be given to these kids, its not easy being at "that age." These particular people have to go through middle school knowing they have four more years of school and hopefully college.

Teachers are also people too, contrary to popular belief, middle school teachers are probably the bravest teachers ever. They are the ones who have to try and teach and prepare these kids for high school, and it can be nerve racking.

Time To Move On

Time to move on-on into high school. The eighth grade year was a pretty exciting time. Being at the top of it all was what everyone had been waiting for. However, next year it would all be ruined. They would have to start all over.

Although they would not be the "head honchos" anymore, they would move up into the high school. "I think that it's great that we will be in the high school," said Jerry Erwin.

At the same time, a lot of eighth graders were going to miss the middle school. "I will miss arguing with Mrs. Vandergriff," said Julie Bailey.

Time To Carry On

Time to carry on was what the seventh grade was all about. Just moving up from the sixth grade and waiting for the eighth, seventh graders were stuck in the middle. "Being in the middle was pretty boring," said Marcella Frazee.

Although they did not have cars, the seventh graders' lives still went on. Parents would tote their children to the mall, the movies or where ever they wanted to go. "I like to go to the mall and walk around," said Jennifer Kennedy

Overall, the seventh grade was just another stepping stone to authority- the eighth grade. As Sarah Porter said, "I am excited because we will be the top of the totem pole!"

A Time For New Beginnings

A time for new beginnings. Being in a new school can sometimes be a little scary. However there were some benefits from being the babies of the middle school. "I can say bigger words and I learned more," said Karla Frizzell.

Class Changes usually caught the new sixth graders off guard. "I like the sixth grade better than the fifth because I get five minutes between each class to goof off," stated Jeff Echole.

New goals were also set this year by many of the students. "I hope I can be a real goof off," said Brian Elsey.

In conclusion being in the sixth grade was not so bad after all.

What Time Is It?

What time is it? A good question asked by middle school faculty every five minutes. Some people might wonder what persuaded middle school teachers to choose the profession they did. "I was impressed in high school to go into teaching, it took several years and many different jobs before I landed at a public school teaching in 1977," said Roger Scaff.

Although it may not be a fun job someone's got to do it. Working from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., with hyperactive kids takes a lot of patience and a very creative mind. "Make sure you want it! If at all possible try out the career you think you want! You may be in for a shock! Then get as much training and education you can while you still young," stated LeeAnne Watson.

In Short the teachers of S.M.S. have a special talent, controlling crazy sixth, seventh and eighth graders.

CAUGHT BY SURPRISE Mrs. Shelton takes time out of her lecture to take a picture.

THE LAMINATOR In middle school the laminating machine was a popular hang out for most of the teachers.

Any Questions? ... Dallas Cowboy Garth Jacks talked to Middle School students about drug and alcohol abuse.

30 min.
A time to study

"Where are you going during tutorials ... Are you going to the gym or library?" These are just a few of the typical questions asked before tutorials at the middle school. 8th grader Renee Brown said "tutorials is a time to finish homework I didn't get to finish the night before." Some students are required to go to an assigned tutorial because of grades. Students who do not have an assigned tutorial could go to the gym, cafeteria or the library, according to their grade.

This 30 minutes is also spent in assemblies and pep rallies 'cause I don't have to do any work," said 7th grader Mitch Brown. During an assembly, Dallas Cowboy Garth Jacks, gave a special speech on drugs. After the assembly Garth gave autographs to the students and faculty. 6th grader Trisha Masten said, "I think that Garth's speech was interesting and I was glad he was here because I didn't have to go to the same tutorials."

The Middle School students seem to think that tutorials is real work, just wait until they get to high school.

Daydreaming? ... 7th grader Kara Stoppel seems to be studying-or is she?

Listen and Learn ... Middle School students listen closely during an assembly.

Gotcha ... A few seventh graders were caught actually studying in the gym during tutorials.

Once upon a time ... Seventh grade girls use their time wisely in study hall.

What's so funny? ... 8th graders Teresa Muir and Wendy LeJuene find something very humorous in the library.

Classroom A time to learn

Each day last year during middle school classroom the students had something accomplished, whether it was completing an assignment, having personal help from a teacher, listening to a discussion or they either had free time for rest and relaxation before approaching the next task.

Sixth graders Rebecca Watson and Jennifer Kennedy both agreed that it the classroom time is very useful to work and and they had time to complete assignments. Seventh grader Justin Herd said "What I like best about classroom time was that the teacher was there to help me." While these students liked the studius aspects of classroom time, eighth grader Renee Brown said that she loved free time and eighth grader Wayne Banks said that he liked the last minute of class better. Eighth grader Wendy Murdock said she was most content when class was over.

Every student has their own favorite aspect about the time they spend during the classroom.

Group Study This group of 7th graders; Jason Gillum, Jay Coin, and Daniel Nelson take classroom time to study together.

Working Hard? 6th graders seem to be working diligently in history class.

A brighter future Jennifer Faulkner and Angela White look ahead to a better future with their computer studies.

Studying Hard 7th grader Amy Blakely spends her time trying act like she was studying.

Enjoyable Study John Henderson seems to enjoy hes time by studying.

MIDDLE SCHOOL

STUDYING HARD Ginger Hawkins takes time out to catch up on some reading during tutorials.

Sanger Middle School students were very active throughout the year. Everyone had their own favorite things to do. When asked what they like to do in their spare time, there were various answers. However, most agreed that talking on the telephone, going to the mall, or going to the movies were popular things to do. When they did go to the movies they would usually catch a ride with mom. Also, school activities were the place to be seen. The Middle School had several dances throughout the year.

In all, Sanger Middle School students stayed busy throughout the year with many things to do.

PREPARING FOR CLASS Several Middle School girls fix their hair and study before class.

PLAYING GAMES Several Middle School students play games during class.

HOP,SKIP,JUMP Brent Herzog works out in a P.E class by jumping rope.

GOOD DECORATING The Middle School stage was decorated for the Halloween dance.

TRYING HARD Middle School girls do a group cheer while trying out for cheer-leader.

WHO'S NEXT? Mark Trexler, Misti Trussell, Jenny Valentine, and Eric Greenville participate in the spelling bee.

JUMPI Kristin Adkins works hard in athletics.

SHOW YOUR STUFF! Cheerleading nominees give it their best shot.

NEXT?! Alex Garza and Jason Shuffield wait to be announced at the basketball extravaganza.

HANGIN' AROUND. Scott McGaugh watches the action.

WHAT'S THE DEAL? Brandi Ryan visits friends between classes.

Preparing for Their Time

7th and 8th graders look big and learn a lot.

For many of the seventh grade football players, it was their first time to play. They had a large team with much enthusiasm throughout the season. There were also some treasured memories.

"Beating Gainesville because nobody thought we could," was one memory Jay Coin remembered.

The eighth grade team also looked good. They had some funny memories and some serious ones.

"Playing a game in the rain and mud," was one humorous memory mentioned by Kent Rider.

"The only touchdown that I made," was something Jason Collett, an eighth grader, recalled.

Both teams had good seasons, but would have liked to have won more games. They are preparing for a good future at Sanger High.

AGAINST ALL ODDS. A seventh grader recovers the ball during a tough game.

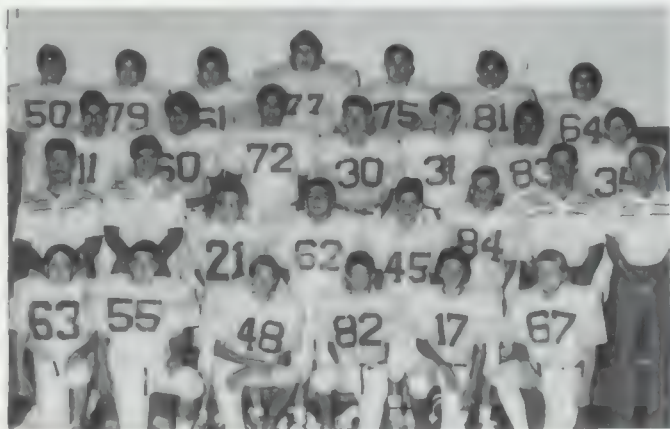

STRUT YOUR STUFF. The seventh grade Indians are ready to win another game.

WAITING TO RUN. Eighth grader, Kody Cook, waits for the offense to block for him.

GET 'EM! During halftime, the coaches give the eighth graders a pep talk. They were only behind a few points and came back to win the game.

Time for Change

7 & 8th guys change sports.

The seventh and eighth grade guys change with the seasons. It just so happens that the season was basketball. These athletes had full potential to be the best. One of them may be the next Magic Johnson. Though the record was not very good for the teams, it showed motivation and endurance that it took to play basketball.

Many people wondered what being a middle school basketball player was all about. "I like basketball very well. Over three years, including this one, that I've played, I learned many things. For one, I learned that teamwork is a number one priority," said eighth grader, Jason Shuffield. The younger generations were having an all together learning experience. This will be something to read about in the future.

BOYS AGAINST GIRLS! Eighth graders Ginger Hawkins and Shane Feltavera play a friendly game of basketball during their workout time.

WOW! WHAT A GAME! Seventh grader Steven Williamson used his muscles and skills to try and out-shoot his teammate during a game of Elimination.

HERE GOES NOTHING! Seventh grader Jason Gillum tries to score two points during an after school practice.

RUN FASTER! The eight grade basketball team runs to get into shape for the upcoming season with the aide of Coach Tom Swartz.

TAKE IT DOWN THE COURT! Eighth grader Gregg McQuien heads down the court to make two points for the guys team during a game against the eighth grade girls.

7TH GRADE BASKETBALL BOYS T-B, L-R: Steven Belcher, Jason Shuffield, David Taylor, Kirk Short, Jesse Hunter, Whit Cross, Kyle Shumate, Justin Herd, Mitch Brown, Benji Snider, Scott Scobee, Jarrod Roberts, Clint Pennington, Jason Gillum, Jay Coin, Alex Garza, Martin Villanueva, Alan Boyd, Steven Williamson, and Steven Dietz.

DRIBBLING TIME

Playing for fun.

Dribbling toward their goal, is one way to describe the 7th and 8th grade girls basketball teams. Although the year was not one of great success the girls kept pressing on and never gave in. Even though a young team, they had the super quality of playing together and sticking together in hopes to raise that Indian spirit at Sanger Middle School.

We know that these girls did succeed in raising the roof off of a spirited audience. The crowd gathered to support the girls weather it was a win, lose, or draw situation. Not only did the crowd arrive with high hopes, but their hopes arose with each passing win.

The 1988-89' girls basketball teams went in to each game with that well known Sanger Pride. We are proud of you girls for making a difference at Sanger Middle School.

WORKING TOGETHER. Eighth graders Julie Jannereth and Tresa Muir lean on each other for support in a tough game.

WHAT A WORKOUT! Eight graders Kara Stoppel and Denise Van-Alstine lead the pack when running in a vigorous morning workout in preparing for the next game.

I NEED HELP! Kelly Webster, eighth grader looks for a teammate to help her put two points in the basket to help Sanger to beat Springtown.

PLEASE GO IN! Against the Springtown Porky's, seventh grader Casie Snider puts two on the scoreboard for the Indians.

HELPING OUT. Seventh graders Angela Travelstead and Shawna Mercer use their young talents to lead their team to victory.

TIME TO RUN

Girls run for fun.

Running to victory, the seventh and eighth grade girls have crossed the finish line with flying colors. They competed in track meets with much enthusiasm. The girls added a new meaning to the words "hard work". They spent many hours sweating and hurting in order to make the teams the best they could be. The 7th & 8th grade girls showed much pride in representing Sanger at area meets. They may have won or lost, but still the Sanger pride had shown through. We are proud of these girls.

MUSCLE IT Eighth grader Wendy LeJuene practices throwing the discus. Hopefully, she plans to continue practicing and compete at the high school level.

HELPING ADVICE Coaches Carla Vickers and Bob Grundy help eighth grader Wendy Murdock to improve her time and experience at track meets.

KEEPING TIME

RUNNING FOR FUN

Jumping hurdles, hands reaching for batons, and racing against time is what the seventh and eighth grade boys did in this years track season. Even though winning seemed far away the boys teams kept pressing forward. They created memories and impressions that will ring throughout Sanger Middle School for a long time. Much time and effort was put into the season to make it a successful one. Sanger Middle School was proud to have a seventh and eighth grade boys track team that was built and based on that Sanger Pride. You have made Sanger truly someplace special, we are proud of you.

OHhh Eighth grader John Frazier stretches hard to prove that the old saying what a girl can do and boy can do better. Keep trying John your almost there.

FLYING HIGH John Colston soars across the hurdles in hopes that he will only get passed and not land right on top of it. We hope you make it John.

READY, SET, GO. Coach Armstrong coaches eighth grader Shane Fetalvero through the procedures of getting a good start out of the blocks. Go for it.

Middle School Bands

The Sanger Middle School bands have grown immensely in past years. The beginning band has grown so that they must have two separate classes.

The Seventh and Eighth grade band participated in the Homecoming half-time show. They attended practices with the high school band in preparation for the show.

Both the beginning bands and the seventh and eighth grade band participated in the annual Sandy Lake Fun Fest band contest.

A Time for Leadership

SMS Cheerleaders

“ . . . show your spirit!”

“Saying ‘Ready-Ok’ when the band was starting to play the school song,” was, head cheerleader, Julie Bailey’s most embarrassing moment.

During the summer the cheerleaders went to an NCA camp at the University of North Texas. The awards they achieved included a nomination for the Award of Excellence, Best Junior High Squad, and a spirit stick everyday.

Wendy Murdock said that her favorite thing about this school year was that “you get to get out of class and show your spirit!” The SMS cheerleaders had an exciting and rewarding year. Ginger Hawkins said, “I learned to be good in class, nice to people and to reach for your goals.”

SMS Cheerleaders . . . Sarah Porter, Stephanie Sons, Brandi Ryan, Tammy Garland, Ginger Hawkins, Dwan Colston, Wendy Murdock, and Julie Bailey.

Go! Fight! Win!
Ginger Hawkins, Brandi Ryan, Tammy Garland and Wendy Murdock yell for the Indians.

Look Excited ... Stephanie Sons watches the football players.

The Pip Sweaks ... Brandi Ryan and Sarah Porter stand at a football game trying to look amused.

What happened ... Julie Bailey and Dwan Colston hold the bare pole at a football game, but where is the sign?

Time To Look Ahead

Future Review

Eighth Grade Graduation was June 1, 1989 in the middle school gym. Seventy-eight students graduated as Superintendent Jim Coulston issued diplomas and released the students into high school.

Tresa Muir was valedictorian and Heather Miller was salutatorian. Students graduating with 90 or above were honored by wearing a special banner. The class song was "Friends are Friends Forever" and the class motto was "Subtract the Past and the Tomorrows Multiply the Joys and Divide the Sorrows." The Colors were royal blue and silver. The eighth grade choir sang the class song and the gym was decorated with blue and silver balloons and ribbons.

Honor Graduates: Christopher Brown, John Colston, Michael Elmquist, Amy Eubanks, Wendy LeJune, Heather Miller, Tresa Muir, Chad Ryan, Kara Stoppel and Kelly Webster.
